FRANK TRAPANI

Incident in relieving a friendship. Last Saturday morning drama was unfolded as two men looked into each other's eyes as they solemnly shook hands on the beach of Bay St. Louis. . . three thousand miles from where they met thirteen years of living in the interim of the two meetings . . . a bridge gaped and flood gates of memories loosed for both. A native of Gretina, La., Frank Trapani moved to Bay St. Louis with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Trapani, and younger brother, (Junior) Anthony, Jr. Here he spent the days of his youth and young manhood attending St. Stanislaus school, later entering the business which his father had established and which he now owns and operates. His life was the normal carefree pattern of youth in free America, war clouds were on horizons so far removed as to seldom enter the heads of most citizens of these United States. The complacent knowledge of two vast oceans as protection from invasion, the isolation program preached by many leaders during the '30's, all made the probability of war so remote as not to be worth a second thought. But Hitler's Legion moved rapidly, devastating all lands in their paths, Japan struck the knife in the back of the United States, and Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941 dawned a black day for this country. War. With lightning speed the greatest armies in all history were assembled . . . factories converted to wartime supplies . . . we did not want war but we had war. Our young men and women were enlisting and being drafted into all branches of service. Frank enlisted. He was newly married to Jennie Di Martino, his sweetheart from Slidell, La. He went to boot camp, then shipped to the European Theatre of Operations. Front line fighting . . . stench of blood . . . mortar dust . . . gun powder clogging nostrils . . . barbed wire entanglements . . . pushing, screaming, firing, our youth of America turned into something bestial toward the danger of the oncoming hordes of the finest trained armies the world has ever had, Hitler's Aryan Army, determined to rule the world with Nazism. Doing front line sentry duty one dark bitter night, Pvt. Trapani saw a man slipping through the dark he called for a halt and password, a flash of fire and the lighted sky revealed another Bay St. Louis youth, David McDonald, a frontline replacement from another outfit, he and Trapani were unaware of each other's presence in the same vicinity. Three thousand miles from home, a front line battle field, a sentry on guard duty and a fighting soldier worming his way to strike in the dark at the unseen enemy. Two nice lads from a small town far across a vast ocean—ships that pass in the night and speak to each other in passing. Months later Trapani was among a lot of American and other Allied soldiers captured by the Nazi. The weary herding of human like so many animals, on foot, in packed box cars, deep into the heart of Germany into prison camps . . . brutality, lack of food, no letters from home. Life depending solely on faith and hope . . . Frank had a ring on his finger given him by his wife as a present before their marriage. Treasured dearly, he parted with this for a small box of oatmeal from a German Guard . . . later when Red Cross packages came to prisoners he traded American cigarettes for small buckets of potatoes. . . a fellow can do without smoking, but life depends on food. . . It was December, 1944 that a baby daughter was born to Mrs. Trapani and Mr. Frank Trapani, but her father never knew of the arrival of little Janet Ann, as it was the same month of December 1944 in which he became a prisoner of the Germans. No letters from home . . . no knowledge of happenings to those he loved and cherished . . . his wife and parents at home wondering if he were dead or alive . . . such was war for Frank. Then came liberation, exchange of prisoners, and Frank found himself once again with his army . . . with friends, and one friend in particular, new found, but to prove the worth of the word friend . . . Sgt. John Turner. Frank didn't tell his story when he returned . . . he was reluctant to give it now . . . just a soldier because being a soldier and fighting for his country then was the only thing that any man could do to preserve the precepts of liberty and justice to all men which is the heritage of freedom our forefathers fought and died for to create this great land of liberty for our generation and for our children. It was necessary to protect that liberty. As we said there were over 11 million men like Frank . . . not professional soldiers . . . not military career men . . . youths . . . middle age men . . . and even some entering the twilight years of life . . . these men fought a war to protect the rights of all free citizens. They didn't realize they were all heroes. Some suffered more bitter agonies than others, some faced more terrifying experiences . . . some laid down their lives—Each one was a story—each individual man and woman wearing the uniform of this country played a hero's role by creating the most valiant army ever to face an enemy. Cocksure of himself the Yankee ceased to lose his identity as an individual, he remained himself, grinning at and daring all who dared to take away the precious heritage of his liberty. . . This was Frank's story, as we said . . . every home in this vast and wonderful country of ours has an untold story. Ace - duce - three - craps at a dice table and the dealer rakes in the chips for the house. Ace - Ace - Ace - three aces in a poker game—and a darn good hand—so you play the game and raise the ante—three aces, the numeral three for Frank Trapani and life dealt him a winning hand and threw in a winning friend, John Turner, Border Patrol United States of America.

WAVELAND

WANDERINGS

by
GEORGETTE B. HALL

The Walter Turcotte had a "full house" on Easter. Besides the home folks, visiting were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Turcotte, Jr. and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Piazza and children, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Morreale and children from New Orleans, and Mr. Henry Carrio. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the Easter weekend and the lovely weather.

It was a bright and gay Easter weekend for most folks. Homes long empty along the beach were lighted, families had "get-togethers" and guests and the Easter Bunny seemed to have worked overtime at his business of supplying the most edible chocolate eggs seen in years. There was some lack of courtesy on the highways and a great deal of speeding, but Waveland reported no accidents. For this the residents of Waveland are most grateful.

Dr. and Mrs. Otto Mollere and daughter have returned from Jacksonville, Florida. Mrs. C. Brune, mother of Mrs. Mollere, returned with the Molleres and is now visiting with them at the Mollere home on Coleman Avenue.

Mr. Cornelius Herlihy is reported to be doing nicely after an accident to his eye. While fishing, he was struck in the eye with a fish hook and the ball of his eye was cut. With careful treatment he is fortunate to be on the way to recovery.

Staff Sergeant Billy Zimmer man is now back from Washington, D. C., where he went last week to receive further treatment for his eye. Billy is stationed at Keesler Field in Biloxi and commutes to his Waveland home.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bourgeois and children of New Orleans visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bourgeois in Waveland during the weekend.

Mr. Ronald Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Russell, spent the Easter weekend with his parents. He has since returned to Mississippi State College where he is a student. Miss Hilda Russell, who is a student nurse at Hotel Dieu in New Orleans, also enjoyed a visit with her parents last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Ludger Moran and children, and Mr. Merrill Fisher of New Orleans spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Du-four and family.

Mrs. Ruth Meilleur and Mrs. Ruth Ketchum spent several days in Jackson last week where they attended the Eastern Star Grand Chapter. About 1500 members were in attendance from the State and other jurisdictions. Mrs. Ruth Meilleur is the grand representative of the Kansas Order of the Eastern Star. She participated in three of the drills—the Entrance March, Star of the World, and the Rainbow.

The entire community is grieved to hear of the sudden death of Mr. Leland Lee who died while attending a Masonic meeting Monday night in Logtown. Mr. Lee had been ill several times in the past year, but was seemingly in good health during recent weeks. He succumbed to a heart attack. He was well known in Bay St. Louis and Waveland. Sympathy is extended to his wife and children, relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Hall, Sr., of Rusk, Texas, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall and daughter, Lynne.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Alec Hunter and family due to the death of Mr. Hunter's father, Mr. Alexander Bell Hunter, who died on Easter Sunday in Winnfield, La.

Funeral services were held in New Orleans on Tuesday. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

An up-side down world would be confusing to all of us and perhaps that's the reason for a few of our babies' squalls and tantrums. A new born baby sees things upside down, and sees separately with each eye, researchers for the Murine Company report. It takes six to eight weeks for a baby to see; before this time all vision is blurred.

CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING

FREE SURVEY

Let us tell you how little whole-house cooling costs on our easy 3-year pay plan.

Forget everything you ever heard about central air conditioning. Now, for a two-story home, for Cape Cod territory, there's an easy, comfortable whole-house air conditioning place of old-style air conditioning that had to be engineered on the separate units, you can enjoy an air conditioner that's completely built — assembled — tested — the new Fedders Adaptomatic good-bye to expensive cooling towers, bills, engineering costs. Fedders Adaptomatic takes residential air conditioning to the luxury class.

no costly structural alterations — big installation savings

In addition to its low cost, the Adaptomatic installation expense is no longer necessary to cut an awkward hole in exterior walls, to install ductwork in attics, crawl spaces, or other undesirable dormers. Adaptomatic locates where to minimize costly ductwork.

FORESTRY
NOTES
Many kinds of trees grow here in Mississippi, and there are trees growing on some part of nearly every farm in the state. On some farm woodlands the trees are all pines. On other farms all the trees are hardwoods. On many farms there are pines and hardwoods. But no matter what kind of trees you have or where they are, you should consider the possibilities of profit in your farm woods.
Two factors will determine in large measure the productivity and the profitability of your woodland. These two factors are fire and timber thinning.
Fire is the greatest enemy of tree farmers in Mississippi. Forest fires destroy not only present profits, but future profits as well.
Even a light fire burning along the surface of the ground may destroy all young growth up to 10 years old. Sometimes fire will burn the humus and other organic matter in the soil. When landowners realize how destructive fire can be, they are careful to see that no wild fire gets into their woods.
Even large trees may suffer serious damage when swept by fire. If part of the inner bark is scorched, that growing part of the tree dies. This will slow down the growth of the tree. Then, too, a fire scar is an open door to insects and disease. Progressive farmers are learning about the damage done by forest fires and they are taking steps to keep uncontrolled fire out of their woods.
Just as vegetables must be thinned to grow bigger, better crops, trees must be thinned for maximum growth. When trees grow too close together, many will die and the rate of growth of the entire stand will be slow.
So it is good business to mark crowded stands for thinning.
When the marked trees have been cut the remaining trees will grow faster, and an attractive feature of timber thinning operations is that they can not only pay their own way but will yield a profit
as well.
Let's talk for a moment about the kinds of trees that should be marked for harvest in a timber thinning or improvement cutting.
Crooked trees never straighten out much as they grow older.
When a tree is so crooked it will never develop a high quality saw log, it should be taken out of the forest and turned into cash.
most routine, don't do it unconsciously cause if you do, some professional handlers might someday be cutting off a certain object, namely, YOUR CHASSIS—for emergency repairs at the body shop."

AMERICAN LEON
CANCER CRUSADE
IN FULL SWING
The 1957 Fund Campaign for the American Cancer Society for Hancock County sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary is in "full swing," announced Mrs.
Eather Oschmann, general chairman.
Mrs. Oschmann urges everyone who has not been contacted to mail their contribution to her at 202 Keller Avenue or Mrs. G. C.
Romanoff, 403 Main St., unit president.
Your contribution will help support vital programs of research, service and education as well as the people of Hancock County who may need aid from the American Cancer Society.
Mrs. Oschmann stated that each one of us should be vitally concerned because it is today so understand that it affects almost every family. Your contribution will be kind of an investment or insurance in your future health.

TIDE TABLE

For Week of April 26 through May 2.

Friday	10:30 AM	2:40 AM
Saturday	10:33 AM	7:59 PM
Sunday	10:31 AM	8:46 PM
Monday	11:12 AM	9:34 PM
Tuesday	11:44 AM	10:30 PM
Wednesday	12:19 AM	11:26 PM
Thursday	1:00 AM	12:21 PM

Believe it or not some fish were caught over the weekend despite the tide conditions.

Even a few soft crabs and flounders are reported as being caught. Although one has to stay out all night to get them.

Nolan Ladner speared 3 flounders and got some soft crabs one night this week. Nolan is an old timer and knows how to get 'em.

Sorry to hear of the sudden death Monday night of Leland L. Lee. He was a good sport and loved the outdoors.

FISH HATCHERY HAS SEASON EARLY START

Out for adoption—a quarter of a million baby black bass. The first of April was designated by the Lyman, Miss., fish hatchery for the very peak of the spawning season for black bass in Southern Miss. Since the main requirement for the success of a fish hatchery lies in the supply, the location for the Mississippi hatchery is ideal in that the water supply is plentiful, and contains an abundance of phosphate fertilizer. Stocking as high as 250 farm fishing ponds throughout Louisiana and Miss. in a single day, several thousand farm ponds are stocked each year through the Lyman hatchery, operated by the Department of the Interior through the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Understand that Ted Lyman has closed his lake to fishing for a couple of weeks. Seems as though the fish caught in the lake were full of eggs and Ted is justified in protecting them.

Picking blackberries comes under the heading of sports for some folks. There are plenty of berries in the woods and plenty of snakes also—be careful while berrying!

Alton Steffell caught a 4 pound speckle trout at the Jackson Ridge this week. He said the water was rather dirty just now.

C. B. Penrose, of Waveland, has been trying to catch some specks, but has not had much luck. Mr. Penrose's favorite sport is

Train Trip To Gulfport For Kindergarten Class

A train trip to Gulfport last Monday morning formed a part of the travel project the kindergarten class of Christ Episcopal Day School has been working on for the last month.

Accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. L. R. Stehling, the youngsters boarded the train in Bay St. Louis, and on alighting at their destination in Gulfport received an impressive welcome from L. J. Hersinger and Sam Williams, President and Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of that city.

The twenty-five students who made the trip were presented hats inscribed with "Gulfport

Miss" and filled Easter Baskets. The children were taken to the docks of Gulfport for an instructive visit to view a seagoing ship load cargo.

The return trip to Bay St. Louis was made in automobiles with a stop at Pass Christian to view the Japanese Gardens at the home owned by the late Rudolph Hecht.

Several such trips have been made by the kindergarten class of this school as part of the curriculum for the year.

Meeting the group in Gulfport with cars for transportation were several mothers of some of the children including Mmes Herndon Coate, Herron Turnipseed, Henry Osoinach, James Ansley, and Hardin Shattuck.

SAVES STEPS

Mississippians make nearly 2 million telephone calls daily... to the grocery or drug store, or to the cleaners; to customers in other cities or to nearby friends and relatives... How many millions of steps do you suppose this saves them every day?

Just recall the telephone calls you made today... and don't forget the calls you received! How much more it would have cost you and your friends and neighbors to travel that far without your telephone... Consider too, how little you actually pay for this fast, dependable service which is growing in usefulness daily as more and more people in your community receive telephones, so you can call them and they can call you.

Is there any wonder so many agree that complete telephone service is so important to modern living?

Blue Jeans Garden Club April Meeting Held Last Week

Members of the Blue Jeans Garden Club met for their April meeting last week at "Miller's Villa," Lakehurst, the summer residence of Mrs. Ruth Miller, New Orleans, with Mrs. C. E. Becker co-hosting with Mrs. Miller. Mrs. William Botzger, who accepted the presidency of the club on the acceptance of the resignation of Mrs. P. S. Finn, conducted her first meeting. Mrs. M. G. Robertson was elected to fill the unexpired term of the club's vice-president. The resignation of Mrs. J. A. Orr, chairman of program and "entertainment," created another vacancy on the board of the organization. These duties will be assumed by Mrs. Robertson, with Mrs. Roy Dennis, Mrs. V. Simms, Mrs. B. Peterson and Mrs. Allice Agreagaard, serving as co-chairmen.

Ribbon winners for entries in various divisions were awarded to Mrs. Agreagaard for potted plant; Mrs. Rae Cope, dried flowers; Mrs. J. Saleeby, wild and cultivated flowers; Mrs. Abbie Bing, miniature and horticulture. Mrs. Joseph Rousseau was awarded the entrance prize.

The agenda of the club has the "Spring Hat Show" scheduled for May 20, and will be filmed in color by Mrs. Becker, who will also show at this date motion films of previous shows which are kept as records of the club.

The annual picnic, usually staged in June for members, will be replaced this year with a luncheon on Wednesday, June 12.

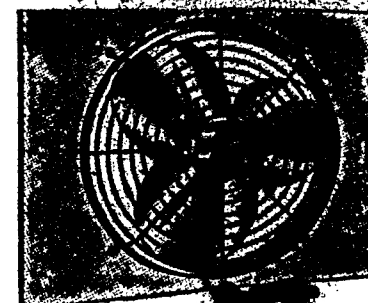

Mississippi ranks third in the nation in number of acres planted to forest trees last year. Acreage planted by private landowners and forest industries in Mississippi totaled 84,871. Georgia led in forest planting with 126,391 acres, while Florida, planted

Hancock County 221,000 Forest Land Contributes $1,880,000 in 1951

Hancock County's 221,000 acres of forest land contributed $1,880,000 worth of timber and timber products to the county in 1951. It was revealed today by Area Forester Marion T. Parker, based on information released by E. T. Hinton, Chief, Timber Surveyance Tax Division of the State Tax Commission.

The value was figured from prices of raw products at the plant or on the "dock," being the case," Parker said, "this is an average of over eight dollars each acre of forest land in Hancock County produced last year."

Parker said that according to Hinton, of a national source, "The harvesting and manufacture

10 o'clock Curfew

Once electric lights could be used only from dusk to 10. Then the electricity was turned off until the next evening. Cost of this luxury of the early 1880's? About six cents per bulb per evening!

Today, electricity is so much a part of our lives that we take it for granted like the air we breathe. We depend on electricity to make our jobs easier, our lives more pleasant. And we're using more of it the time. Today, the average family uses four times as much electricity as it did 25 years ago. In the future, we'll be using even more. That's why your friends and neighbors in this community are working now to have more low-price power ready tomorrow.
